

factories and ten research and development facilities. In the U.S., Honda's capital investment exceeds $7 billion with more than $12 billion in parts and materials purchased annually from 580 suppliers in 33 states.

Honda's philosophy of respect for the individual is the cornerstone of placing responsibility and accountability with each associate. That philosophy and accountability has allowed its U.S. workforce to produce the highest quality products at an affordable price and great reliability. Honda's involvement in the communities where its facilities are located has been another key to its success because it has treated state and local leaders as well as parts suppliers as equal partners. Honda is a great example of a company that has invested and reinvested significant financial and human resources in its plants, equipment and associates here in the U.S.

I want to offer my congratulations to Honda on the occasion of the 25th anniversary and look forward to another 25 years of growth and success in Ohio and throughout the U.S.

CONGRATULATING DIANA ROYCROFT ON WINNING FIRST PLACE IN THE JUNIOR HISTORICAL PAPER CATEGORY OF THE 2004 FLORIDA HISTORY FAIR

HON. JEFF MILLER

OF FLORIDA

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Tuesday, September 7, 2004

Mr. MILLER of Florida. Mr. Speaker, it is my honor today to recognize Diana Roycroft and congratulate her on winning first place in the Junior Historical Paper category at the Florida History Fair and also for her participation at the National History Day competition.

Sponsored by the Museum of Florida History, the Florida History Fair is an annual statewide activity that enhances the teaching and learning of history at both the elementary and secondary levels. The first and second place winners in each category and division of the fair earn the right to represent the State of Florida at the National History Day competition. The 2003–2004 theme was “Exploration, Encounter, Exchange in History”. Participating students analyzed and interpreted information they gathered from primary and secondary resources and expressed their findings in a paper, exhibit, performance, or documentary.

Diana Roycroft is a student at the PATS Center and Workman Middle School in Escambia County, Florida. Diana received first place in the category of Junior Historical Paper for her paper entitled “Heroes in the Bubble” at the Florida History Fair on May 9 in Tallahassee, Florida. Diana's paper detailed the courageous fight of the ball turret gunners in the B–17 and B–24 bomber planes during World War II. Those brave young men who served as gunners deserve great honor and respect for their service to this nation. Diana's first place award at the Florida History Fair earned Diana the distinct honor of representing the Sunshine State at the 2004 National History Day competition in College Park, Maryland, on June 13–16.

Mr. Speaker, on behalf of the United States Congress, I would like to congratulate and offer my sincere appreciation to Diana Roycroft and all the participants of the Florida

History Fair and the National History Day competition. It is because of bright students like Diana Roycroft that America is a hopeful nation destined for a bright future.

HONORING MARK F. GRADY, DEAN OF GEORGE MASON UNIVERSITY SCHOOL OF LAW

HON. TOM DAVIS

OF VIRGINIA

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Tuesday, September 7, 2004

Mr. TOM DAVIS of Virginia. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to honor Mark F. Grady for his years of dedicated service to the George Mason University School of Law.

Dean Grady has been a pivotal member of the George Mason community for 6 years, both as Dean and professor of law. Students enjoy his wisdom and expertise in the area of law.

As the dean of the School of Law, Mr. Grady has played an important role in the success of the school and its students. Through his guidance, George Mason has become the youngest law school ranked in U.S. News and World Report's top tier.

Under Dean Grady's direction, the School of Law has become a national leader not only of law but also economics and technology. In 1999, the National Center for Technology and Law was established. This center examines the causality of the existing legal structure and the society's evolving economy. Through this relationship, new fields of course work were created that allow the student to gain the necessary skills to succeed in both technology and communications.

George Mason School of Law is one of the most innovative schools in the country. Due to its emphasis on intellectual property, technology law and the legal application of economic methods, George Mason was also ranked in the top 10 in the Nation for an outstanding faculty in law and economics in University of Texas Professor Brian Lieter's Ranking of Law Faculty Quality for 2003.

Professor Grady should be honored and commended for his dedication to not only the School of Law but also the surrounding community. With his instruction and guidance, he has enabled Mason Law graduates to pursue careers in numerous fields and become successful attorneys who practice law with great distinction and honor.

Mr. Speaker, in closing, I would like to extend my heartfelt thanks to Dean Grady for his years of service and dedication to George Mason University. His contributions and efforts are noted and greatly appreciated. I wish him the best of luck in all future endeavors.

TRIBUTE TO MR. ERNEST J. GREGORY

HON. TOM DAVIS

OF VIRGINIA

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Tuesday, September 7, 2004

Mr. TOM DAVIS of Virginia. Mr. Speaker, it has come to my attention that Mr. Ernest J. Gregory is retiring after 37 years of exemplary Federal service, initially with the United States

Air Force and then as a career civil servant in the Department of Defense (DoD). Mr. Gregory is a gifted leader and manager, and has served his country with dignity, honor and integrity.

Ernest Gregory, a native of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, is a 1967 graduate of the University of Scranton in Scranton, Pennsylvania, and holds a Bachelor of Science in accounting from that institution. He began his service to the Nation in 1968, when he entered the U.S. Air Force as an aircraft maintenance officer at the Strategic Air Command, Loring Air Force Base, Maine.

Upon completing his military term in 1972, Mr. Gregory was hired as a staff auditor for the U.S. Army Audit Agency in Philadelphia. He proved to be quite skilled and soon was promoted to auditor-in-charge. Mr. Gregory continued his illustrious civilian career at the U.S. Army Security Center with various assignments, including: chief, internal review (1976–1979), financial systems analyst (1979–1980), deputy comptroller (1980–1981) and senior financial systems analyst (1981–1982). During his time at the Army Security Center, Mr. Gregory played a key role in developing and implementing financial management performance objectives. He simultaneously earned a Masters of Business Administration in 1979 from Syracuse University.

In 1982, Mr. Gregory was selected to join the Army secretariat staff as assistant comptroller for internal review, office of the comptroller of the Army. He was a relentless master in reviewing financial management systems and integrating measures to address shortcomings uncovered during the process. In recognition of his talent and dedication, Mr. Gregory was promoted in 1987 to director, internal review, office of the assistant secretary of the Army (financial operations). He again challenged the financial management community and was a model civil servant, embracing opportunities and creating new methodologies in an environment of continual development. Additionally, in 1988, he attended the Industrial College of the Armed Forces.

In January 1993, the Army acknowledged Mr. Gregory's abilities and leadership, elevating him to the Senior Executive Service and the position of deputy assistant secretary of the Army for financial operations. As deputy assistant secretary, he was responsible for all Army policy, programs, systems and procedures associated with the service's accounting and finance operations, financial systems and internal review and controls. He took charge of combating fraud, waste and abuse. He also was the primary ambassador on financial management issues to external stakeholders. Mr. Gregory's efforts to integrate financial requirements and responsiveness with emerging functional systems, such as the Single Stock Fund and the Defense Integrated Military Human Resource System, were successful and greatly improved Army financial management.

Mr. Gregory was again promoted in February 2002, when Ms. Sandra Pack, then assistant secretary of the Army (financial management and comptroller), chose him as her principal deputy. (When she departed the Army in December 2003, he succeeded Ms. Pack as acting assistant secretary and served in that role for eight months.) During his tenure as principal deputy, Mr. Gregory shared responsibility for the development, formulation and advocacy of policies and programs to improve the efficiency and effectiveness of U.S. Army resource management. He took bold and decisive measures to improve business procedures, and tirelessly pursued financial system integration and streamlining of Army processes. For instance, Mr. Gregory led the Army-wide effort to eliminate the Installation Supply Buffer and associated annual maintenance costs, while integrating supply management and financial processes. These changes reduced processing cycle time from four days to one, improving the flow of spare parts to tactical units and saving taxpayers $9 million. Mr. Gregory also helped to steer the Army's transformational business initiatives program and the Army Business Initiative Council, through which the Army has gleaned more than $1 billion in monetary benefits. He administered implementation of Army Budget and Performance Initiatives, as well, including designing and deploying a training package and reviewing metrics for the fiscal year 2005 budget.

Mr. Speaker, in this final position Mr. Gregory also had a significant impact on the House Government Reform Committee. His forthright information and proactive attitude assisted our committee in addressing the financial management challenges of mobilized Army National Guard and U.S. Army Reserve soldiers. He identified the problem—processing limitations caused by separate pay and personnel systems—and played a significant role in crafting a solution. His commitment to solving pay issues for all soldiers, whether active or reserve component, exemplifies his devotion to our men and women in uniform.

On every day of his service to our country, Mr. Gregory demonstrated honor, integrity and personal courage. He projected the values and the broad perspective of the government, and provided the solid executive skills demanded by the American public. He helped to ensure that the Army was of the highest quality and was responsive to the needs, policies and goals of the Nation.

Mr. Gregory's leadership and attention to people were truly outstanding. He actively participated in the personal and professional development of both military and civilian subordinates and peers. He was a premier team builder within the office of the assistant secretary of the Army (financial management and comptroller) and a truly exemplary leader, empowering those with whom he worked and motivating them to achieve at higher levels than they thought possible.

Mr. Gregory's character and accomplishments have earned him numerous awards. He was the first civilian to be honored with the Finance Corps Regiment Award. He also has received two Meritorious Presidential Rank Awards, the Executive Excellence Award for Executive Achievement, the Special Act Award—Kuwait Reconstruction Program, the Leonard H. Kerman Memorial Award, the Meritorious Civilian Award, the Superior Civilian Service Award, multiple Outstanding Performance Awards and several Significant Accomplishment Awards.

Mr. Speaker, Mr. Ernest J. Gregory, a resident of the Commonwealth of Virginia, retires after 37 years of Federal service to the United States of America on the 2nd day of October, 2004. He, his lovely wife, Johanna, and their children, Maura, Ernie and Jason, deserve the thanks and praise of this grateful Nation, which he has faithfully served for so long. I know the members of the U.S. House of Representatives will join me in wishing him and his family all the best in the years ahead.

IN HONOR OF MISS NICOSIA
YOUNG AND MISS HEATHER
ADAMS

HON. CAROLYN C. KILPATRICK

OF MICHIGAN

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Tuesday, September 7, 2004

Ms. KILPATRICK. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to honor the exemplary performance of two young women who have greatly contributed to my office through Congressional Black Caucus intern programs.

Heather Adams, after undergoing a rigorous selection process, came to my office in late May of this year as a Congressional Black Caucus Foundation intern. She has been a constant help to my staff and myself in the performance of the office operation. Though currently residing in Pickerington, Ohio, she originates from my district, Detroit, Michigan.

Heather earned her Bachelors Degree in Business Administration with an emphasis in Marketing at West Virginia State University. Moreover, she was a member of Omicron Delta Epsilon-International Honor Society in Economics as well as a consistent Dean's List honoree.

Heather has helped my legislative staff maintain correspondence with my constituents. She conducted research regarding constituent demographics, issues, and policies and organized and presented me with informative memos on key issues. As a participant in the Congressional Black Caucus Foundation's Summer Congressional Internship Program, Heather has expressed her interest in public policy and the political process. Heather aspires to one day to work on Capitol Hill focusing on domestic and international development issues.

I would also like to congratulate my Congressional Black Caucus Foundation, Eleanor Holmes Norton, High School intern, Nicosia Young. Nicosia is a rising senior at Cesar Chavez Public Charter high school for Public Policy in the District. Aside from providing exceptional support to my staff, Nicosia brings with her a positive spirit and infectious laugh everyday with her to work. Always understanding and eager to help, she expresses true determination to succeed and extraordinary work ethic.

Aside from her outstanding work ethic, Nicosia is also an outstanding student. While maintaining a 3.33 GPA, she has been awarded the honor of Student of the Month, and student ambassador from her high school. Her goal is to attend college following her senior year, and she aspires to become a doctor. She is a vibrant, intelligent, and unique young woman, and I am happy to have had the opportunity to get to know her, and have her in my office.

I am sure that both young women will succeed in whatever they put their minds to, just as they have succeeded within my office. Again, I would like to thank both Nicosia and Heather for being such outstanding interns, and I wish them both the best in future endeavors.

HONORING SERGEANT FIRST CLASS WILLIAM R. DWYER

HON. JAMES P. MORAN

OF VIRGINIA

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Tuesday, September 7, 2004

Mr. MORAN of Virginia. Mr. Speaker, during this time of war, our thoughts are constantly with our active duty military personnel overseas, and also with all of the men and women who have worn the uniform of the United States military through the years. I rise to honor an individual who retired last month following a long period of outstanding military service to this country. Sergeant First Class William R. Dwyer has served this nation with distinction and honor for the past twenty years, and I am pleased to have the opportunity to honor him today.

Sergeant First Class William R. Dwyer enlisted in the United States Army in February 1984. During his career, he served as a communications and intelligence specialist in a number of challenging assignments, including overseas tours in Germany, Panama, Korea, and England. Throughout his service, he has been a leader and always used his knowledge and extensive experience to better our defense and our community.

Throughout his successful and noteworthy career, Sergeant First Class Dwyer focused on his duties to our nation and the United States Army. He concludes his remarkable career as a Vietnam War analyst at the Department of Defense where he has pushed toward resolving the still open cases of Americans missing from the Vietnam War.

Sergeant First Class Dwyer is highly regarded by his peers as someone who has demonstrated by his example the values, respect for family and hard work that is so central to our Armed Forces, and which has been the cornerstone of our nation's democratic freedoms. I am certain for these reasons, among others, he will be greatly missed by his colleagues and others who have worked with him over his years of service.

I ask my colleagues to join me in thanking and congratulating Sergeant First Class William R. Dwyer for his dedicated and committed service to the United States. I wish him and his family the best as they look toward the future.

TRIBUTE TO CROFTON, MARYLAND

HON. BENJAMIN L. CARDIN

OF MARYLAND

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Tuesday, September 7, 2004

Mr. CARDIN. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to pay special tribute to the town of Crofton, Maryland, which is celebrating its 40th anniversary. Located near Annapolis, Baltimore, and Washington, Crofton has contributed to Maryland's cultural and economic life since 1964.

This celebration is designed to commemorate Crofton's growth from its beginnings as a small farm town to the large suburban community it is today. Crofton was established when Hamilton Crawford, a Louisiana developer, designed a community convenient to Washington and Baltimore that appealed to both residents and businesses.
